

ABSTRACT

A method for managing television presentation recordings includes determining if a television presentation corresponding to a television presentation listing is scheduled to be recorded, assigning a color to the television presentation listing responsive to 5 determining that the television presentation is scheduled to be recorded, and presenting the television presentation listing to a user.